About the Seminar:

Join ARMA Chicago for a half-day, live conference tailored for information management, information governance and records management professionals.

Our theme this year is Skills to Succeed. ARMA Chicago will present three sessions focused on growing your career in the evolving field of Records & Information Management.

Schedule of Events:

8:30 AM

Tera Ladner - VP, Info Risk Mgmt & Governance, Aflac Inc

Riding the Wave for RIM Success — For those who struggle to drive the focus within our organizations, Tera will share how to “ride the waves” of interest to further your objectives by “taking small bites of the elephant”.

9:30 AM

Leela Yellesetty - Information Governance Officer, Oregon Department of Environmental Quality

Transitioning from RIM to IG: what skills do you need to succeed? - Leela will outline a new unified approach to records and data management at Oregon Department of Environmental Quality, highlighting the existing skills and knowledge and development of new skills that increased the success of the program while enhancing professional credentials.

10:30 AM

Rob Bogue - President and CEO, Thor Projects LLC

Leading the Big World of Information Governance - Information governance requires a diverse set of perspectives, skills, and roles to enable organizational effectiveness. In this session, you’ll see how all of the parts of the information governance world fit together and how you can transform the organization into a fine-tuned engine for information governance.
